NECK BROKEN AND SKULL CRUSHED

Earl Haskell, well known young farmer of Huntington township, Thrown from Wagon and Dragged, Wheel finally Passing over Head.

Earl Haskell, a well known young farmer of Huntington township, was thrown under a wagon at his farm about half past four o'clock Tuesday afternoon and dragged, a wheel finally going over him, breaking his neck and crushing the skull, causing almost instant death.

Mr. Haskell with his hired man, Mr. Sowers had gone into the field for a load of fodder, the farmer standing on the wagon and the man throwing up the sheaves to him. The wagon had been about half loaded when, in handling one of the sheaves, Mr. Haskell suddenly lost his balance and fell forward between the two mules and in front of the wheels of the wagon.

One of the mules was young and immediately took fright, both starting to run. Mr. Sowers was powerless to stop them and after dragging Mr. Haskell for a short distance the wagon went over his head, breaking his neck and crushing a portion of the skull. By the time he was gotten into his home he was dead.

The tragic death has caused great sorrow throughout the section of the county in which he lived for he was widely known. He resided on the Abraham Meals farm and was a son-in-law of James K. Neely of York Springs. He was about thirty three years old and leaves his wife and five children, the oldest eleven years of age. He was born near Idaville and lived his entire life in the upper end of the county. His father, Harrison Haskell, is a resident of Carlisle.

Funeral Friday morning, meeting at the house at half past nine o'clock. Interment in the Sunny Side Cemetery at York Springs.

He was able to walk to the house where he was given immediate attention but death resulted Tuesday night.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Nathaniel Lightner, two daughters, Mrs. James Little, of Gettysburg, and Mrs. Smith, of Orrtanna; five sons, Frank, Hanson and Edward, of Gettysburg; Wesley, of Baltimore, and John, of Dixon, Illinois.

Funeral services Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

FIRST DIVIDEND OF REASER CO.

Reaser Furniture Company Declares its First Semi-Annual Dividend of Three per cent. Large Shipments Past Two Months.

At the regular monthly meeting of the directors of the Reaser Furniture Company on Tuesday evening the first semi-annual dividend of three per cent was declared payable December 4.

The monthly report was most encouraging to the directors, showing shipments of no less than $41,000 worth of goods during the months of September and October and general activity in all departments. New machines of the latest approved designs recently installed include a carving machine, a polishing machine and a moulder. All of these, in addition to being great labor savers, are calculated to improve greatly the character of the output of the factory.

During the four years that Mr. Reaser has been at the head of the plant thousands of dollars of earnings have been put into the factory, the directors feeling that better business policy than declaring dividends, so that now the plant is in fine operating condition, a credit to the management and to the town.

An electric lighting system is now being installed and after this week the plant will supply its own light.

The declaring of a dividend is a matter for congratulation to all who have contributed to the success of Gettysburg's largest enterprise.

GOVERNOR ROBERT B. GLENN

Teachers' Institute, Tuesday evening, Nov. 21, Winona, Ind.—Gov. Glenn told thrilling stories of the war and drew in dramatic colors the charge up Cemetery Ridge at the battle of Gettysburg. He told the story of the colored man and the 'possum, and said: "The 'possum is the emblem of our President. Let us all be 'possumists. The word 'possum means in Latin in its varied forms, 'I am able; you are able; we are able.' Two brothers had a fight; the big brother whipped the little brother. Here is the little brother's hand, now let us go out and make this the greatest nation upon earth. Fierce abolitionist and foolish slaveholder held out for a war. Good men in the North and South prayed that it might be averted. We did not want to secede. We could not forget we were part of the thirteen original colonies, and were even of the same blood. It was the fault of the miserable politicians on both sides."

MANY SENTENCES TO BE IMPOSED

Several Persons Plead Guilty at November Sessions. Charles Mummert is Found Guilty. James Pittenturf being Tried.

Many prisoners will come up for sentence at the current term of Court, a number having already pleaded guilty, one verdict of guilty having been returned and other cases remaining to be tried.

James Johnson pleaded guilty to charges of assault and battery and aggravated assault. A charge of assault with intent to commit murder was not pressed.

J. H. Keener entered a plea of guilty on the charge of receiving stolen goods.

Harry Metz pleaded guilty to assault and battery on Roy Pittenturf and to the larceny of ten cigars and some peanuts from the same party.

Joseph Brannon, connected with the Claybaugh chicken stealing cases, pleaded guilty to shooting the chickens and carrying concealed deadly weapons. He refused to plead guilty to the charge of attempting to break jail and that matter was not pressed. He exonerated Mrs. Claybaugh from any connection with the chicken stealing matters saying that she did not know the fowls were stolen. Mrs. Claybaugh was expected to plead guilty to charges of receiving stolen goods and keeping a disorderly house but she claimed she did not know they were stolen and the disorderly house plea was not entered.

Charles Mummert was found guilty on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. He, with those who pleaded guilty, will come up for sentence Saturday.

The case now exciting the greatest interest is the one against James Pittenturf who is charged with robbery and assault. The story of the assault on, and robbery of, Hanson B. Hoar at the stable in the rear of the Globe Hotel last July is so well known as to need no repetition. District Attorney S. S. Neely is conducting the case for the Commonwealth and Donald P. McPherson, Esq., represents the defendant. The prosecution is still at its side of the case.

The jury in the case is as follows, Joseph E. Kepner, Joseph Cox, G. Harry Eckenrode, J. Arthur Spangler, Charles E. Coshun, C. Truman Grove, Isaac Pottoff, John Menges, Emory Plank, Frank Bucher, William Linn, J. Frank Golden.

STATUS OF AMENDMENTS

Returns from 43 counties received at the state department show that at least one of the proposed constitutional amendments, that to allow Philadelphia to increase its debt limit for certain purposes, has a chance of pulling through. None of the big counties has been heard from and most of them are believed to be in favor of both amendments.

The returns are coming in slowly. Twenty seven counties are yet to be heard from, but it is thought that the remainder will be reported by the end of the week.

AERONAUT MIX A SUICIDE

Well Known American Sportsman
Leaped From Channel Steamer.
Paris, Nov. 15.—The American consul, Mr. Mason, has been notified from Calais that Edgar W. Mix, the well known American sportsman and balloonist, committed suicide by jumping from a channel steamer Sunday night.

Mix left a letter to the captain of the steamer indicating his intention to end his life. A search of the boat resulted in the discovery of an overcoat and a hat, in which were his initials and Mix's business card as manager of the European division of the General Motors and Exports company, of Detroit, Mich. Mr. Mix's home was in Columbus, O.

Edward Foerderer a Suicide.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—Edward Foerderer, a member of the prominent Philadelphia family of that name and brother of the late Congressman Robert H. Foerderer, shot and killed himself in his summer home at the foot of Grant avenue, Torresdale, a suburb.

Despondency, due to illness, is given as the reason for Mr. Foerderer's act. He had been a sufferer for some time from heart trouble and frequently had spells of intense depression. It is believed that in one of these he placed his revolver to his head and pulled the trigger.

CONFESSES HE SLEW MOTHER, SISTER, BABY

Says He Shot Them When Refused Money.

New York, Nov. 15.—Matteo Dellamo, accused of the murder of his mother, sister and the latter's five-year-old daughter in Brooklyn, broke down and confessed, according to the police, that he shot them when money was refused him.

Dellamo was arraigned in the Gates avenue police court and held without bail on a charge of murder. Going back to the Vernon avenue station he told the detectives that he had committed the crime.

"I've got pains in my head," said Dellamo, "and I want to get the whole thing off my mind."

Then he took the detectives to the place where he had hidden the revolver. His bloody shirt was found in his cobbler shop at 503 Humboldt street.

According to the police, Dellamo went to 739 Park avenue, where his sister, Mrs. Adolpho Lofaro, lived with her mother, Mrs. Dellamo, her husband and two little daughters.

He told his sister that he must have money to pay four months' rent or he would have to go out of business.

She told him to go away; that she was afraid of him. Dellamo said she began to push him toward the door, and then he shot her in the back of the head. His mother grappled with him and he shot her, too.

"I didn't intend to kill little Rosina," said Dellamo, "but she cried and I thought it would be better."

He shot the child in the temple. Then he dragged the three bodies into the bedroom and put Rosina's head on her mother's breast. That he said explained how he got his shirt bloody.

Dellamo took $24 that he found in the house and came to Manhattan. He wandered up to Seventy-second street and then went back to his shop, where he was arrested.

SHOT IN DREAM

Indian Fighter Hits Self For Visionary
Train Robber.

Shickasha, Okla., Nov. 15.—Thomas Burke, an old Indian fighter and for twenty years deputy United States marshal of this district, shot himself in a dream while in Duncan to serve warrants for the coming session of the federal court.

He slept in a hotel, with his revolver under his pillow. In a nightmare he believed he was pursuing a train robber. He seized his revolver and pulled the trigger. The bullet went through the pillow and struck him in the lower jaw.

SECRETARY WILSON TO QUIT

Is Delaying Announcement of Resignation Until President Decides on Another Man For the Place.

Washington, Nov. 15.—President Taft is planning to take up the high cost of living in a special message to congress when he transmits the report of the tariff board's investigation of the wool and cotton schedules.

It is also said the president will vigorously renew his recommendations for a parcels post. The tariff board's findings will show, it is declared, that much of the high cost of living is due to the middleman rather than the tariff.

President Taft met the cabinet for the first time in three months. Secretary Stimson was the only member absent.

The reassembling of the cabinet gave recurrence to the rumors that Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is to resign. This is generally believed to be true, and in official circles it is stated that the secretary of agriculture is only delaying the announcement of his resignation until President Taft decides upon another man for his place. It is said that the portfolio has been offered to at least two men prominent in scientific agricultural work and declined.

The meeting was devoted largely to consideration of the president's message and the official reports of the cabinet officers. The president's recommendation to congress for supplementary anti-trust legislation, probably along the lines of a federal incorporation act, will be formed after thorough conferences with Attorney General Wickersham.

It is understood that the president's advisers pointed out that the work of the coming congress would center on two main issues—the tariff and the trusts. With Democratic leaders declaring for some readjustment of the Sherman law and the Republican insurgents declaring for some affirmative legislation to point out the paths for the legal conduct of big business, the president's closest counselors seem to favor some legislation which will permit business to go ahead and know where it stands.

It became known that a decision in the National City bank case probably will be made soon by the president. Powerful Chicago bankers are reported to be insisting that the legality of such a corporation as the National City company be fully determined before they will give their full support to the Aldrich plan of currency reform.

It is understood that Attorney General Wickersham has reported to the president that the recent action of the National City company in disposing of certain of its bank stock holdings does not eliminate all the conditions which he criticized in his investigation.

GIVES AUTO FOR TEAM

Each Offered $350 For Their Bargain and Are Satisfied.

New Castle, Del., Nov. 15.—John Truitt, of this city, who owned a fine driving horse and a rubber tire run about, met on the roadway south of New Castle J. Frank McWhorter and his son, Pernel J. McWhorter, of Middletown, working on a stalled automobile.

Truitt asked them if he could do anything for them, and they stated that they would like to get their machine going. After watching the men for some time Truitt said "How would you like to trade?"

McWhorter answered: "If you mean business then jump out."

The trade was made and the automobile was towed to New Castle and is now in commission. McWhorter says that he has a $350 team, and that he would have been allowed but $200 on the automobile. Truitt has a machine for which he has refused $350. Both parties are satisfied.

Made Mentally a Criminal

By GERALD FERGUSON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

John Williams awoke with a terrible headache. He had a dire remembrance of having been the night before with two friends of his, Bortland and Tucker, of taking a number of drinks and smoking a large quantity of cigars. Suddenly he remembered something else. He and his friends had been discussing the various ways criminals gave themselves away. Williams had wondered why they did so, averring that he would suppose every faculty they possessed would be called out to shield them from detection and punishment.

This is as far as Williams remembered. From that time the liquor he had taken affected him so far that he had no recollection of what had transpired. He did not even know how he had got to bed. The experience was a novel one to him, for he had never been intoxicated before. He was employed in a bank and so trusted was he that he was made a keeper of the safe lock combination in order that when the cashier was absent the funds might be available.

Something under Williams' pillow rendered his head uncomfortable. Putting his hand there to discover what it was, he pulled out an oblong parcel done up in brown paper. He opened it and was surprised to see a package of bank bills. Then he remembered something more. He had made a bet with Tucker that he would take a sum of money from the bank keep it a month, meanwhile proceeding with his duties at the institution without betraying his secret. Then the party had gone to the bank. Williams had opened the safe and had taken the money.

All this he recalled while looking at the package and was horrified at what he had done. If detected what avail would it be for Bortland and Tucker to swear that the money had been taken on a bet and was to be returned? He was in the position of a criminal. His first thought was to telephone to the bank that he was ill and would not be there that day. But the loss would be discovered, and his absence would cause suspicion that he had taken the money. No; he must get up and go to the bank as usual. He plunged into a cold bath, dressed, drank a cup of coffee and, leaving the bills locked in an old trunk in a storeroom, went to face the officers and clerks of the bank.

Meanwhile he had been thinking that he would confess the whole affair. Would he be believed? Would it not be considered that he had committed the theft, become frightened at what he had done and made up this story to save himself? His two friends would testify for him, but almost any one would help a fellow out of such a fix, and their testimony would be taken "with a grain of salt."

No; his only hope was to carry out the conditions of his bet successfully.

He entered the bank, assuming as carelessness an air as he could command. Nothing seemed amiss with those assembled there. Williams sat down at his desk and went to work. About 11 o'clock he was called into the president's office, where he found the cashier, both officers showing by their demeanor that the loss had been discovered.

"Mr. Williams," said the president, "$5,000 in bills is missing from the safe. You and Mr. Stivers, the cashier, and one other are the only ones who know the combination of the safe lock. I am not going to accuse you of taking this money. I simply wish to hear what you have to say about the matter."

Williams, whose heart was in his throat, denied any knowledge of how the theft could have been effected. He looked frightened, but that was to be expected. The president, after studying his face carefully, dismissed him. Williams went back to his desk and to misery. As to doing his work that was impossible. What he tried to do he blundered over. After an interminable day of wretchedness he went home and to his room and fell on his bed with a groan.

"If I, who am really innocent of wrong," he said, "am so affected by my position what must be the state of a real criminal?"

There was no sleep for Williams that night. He dreaded to go to the bank that day and dare not remain away. He went to his desk at the usual hour, and as he sat down, though he looked at no one and no one looked at him, he felt that a battery of eyes was upon him. During the day a trifle of comfort came to him, since he was treated by all in the bank with the same friendliness as before the robbery. But there was a steady wear upon his nerves, and when he reached his room he felt that he had lost much ground on this first day of his trial.

He now knew that he could not stand the strain for thirty days nor for half that time. He must find a way to return the money, covering his tracks at the same time. He was so unstrung that he could not, dare not use any method that occurred to him.

On the fifth day he went to the president and confessed that he had been tempted to steal the money, making no mention of his bet.

The omission saved him. His friends told of the bet, and the president understood the mental strain that had led Williams to confess himself the criminal he was not.

Gray Hair Makes You Look Old

Use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur
and Your Gray Hair
Will Quickly Vanish.

Gray hair is a mark of age, and nothing that can be said as to its beauty will offset the disadvantages of this mark of age set upon your brow.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. Nothing has ever been found more effective for this purpose than these two time-honored remedies, but Wyeth, a modern chemist, has combined the two with other ingredients, which makes a delightful dressing for the hair, and which not only removes every trace of dandruff but promotes the growth of the hair. It also stops the hair from falling out, and makes it beautiful.

All druggists are authorized to refund the money if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't neglect your hair and don't resort to old-time hair dyes. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist to-day, and notice the difference in your hair after a few days' use.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Maul Rock.
Among the numerous natural curiosities of West Virginia is one in Lincoln county called the "Maul rock" because of its similarity to a maul. The base of the rock is about a thousand feet above sea level and is made up of large boulders, says an exchange. The stem of the rock is twenty feet high and will average about seven feet in diameter. The cap, or maul part, is about six feet thick and is thirty-eight feet in circumference. The stem is of a soft formation and is fast crumbling away since the timber has died that was a great protection from the force of strong winds. By mounting the rock by means of a ladder that is kept there a magnificent view of the West Virginia hills can be obtained.—Christian Science Monitor.

MCGOVERN'S PRESENCE WAS COSTLY TO RESTAURANT KEEPER.
There is a German restaurant keeper in Hoboken, N. J., who froths at the mouth when the name of Terry McGovern is mentioned. When Terry was champion he played in a show in Hoboken. The Deutsch bouffance saw a chance to boost his place and invited Terry to eat there free gratis. He accepted. Then Mr. Boniface informed TERRY MCGOVERN. Hobokenites in general of the portentous event. The night of the dinner arrived. Everybody in Hoboken was outside looking in. The crush was so great that the mob kept leaning on the big show windows. This tickled the host immensely. "Go away," he shouted, "and let Mr. McGovern eat!" The crowd hooted. Suddenly the big windows gave way under the pressure, and a number toppled into the place. "Meln heavens!" shouted the boss. "There go mine windows, worth $400, and I have no insurance." "Mr. McGovern," he added, "please stop eating and go some other place."

WOLGAST TO FIGHT ABROAD.
Champion Seeks Fresh Fields to Conquer Budding Lightweights. Lightweight fighters are so few in number in this country that Champion Ad Wolgast and his manager, Tom Jones, plan taking a trip to Australia, England and France. Like most other champions, Wolgast is tired of resting so long between each contest. He desires more battles and less rest. The only way he thinks his wishes can be gratified is by going across the water, and after the combat with Freddie Welsh on the coast Thanksgiving day the men will depart. Many boxers rank themselves in the lightweight division, but when it comes to making the weight insisted upon by Wolgast they disappear. Wolgast, like other champions, refuses to give away extra weight to men who stand a chance of beating him. He will fight at his own girth and take on any one.

DENOUNCES FORWARD PASS.
Coach Murphy of Penn Says It Is Not Good Football. Mike Murphy, the veteran trainer of Pennsylvania, is confident that the forward pass is poor football. "The point I make against the forward pass," says Murphy, "is that it is a violation of elementary principles of football. It will never be anything but a haphazard play, and it disorganizes any team's defense. "I have always contended that what football spectators like to see is the ball moved down the field by a series of well executed plays cleverly designed and operated. The basketball feature, in which the ball is thrown all over the field and passes back and forth from one team to another, is certainly not good football."

REBELS OFFER PEACE TERMS
Commander of Troops Guarantees to Uphold Constitution.

THE THRONE IS HOPEFUL
Yuan Shi Kai Commanded to Accept Premiership For Country's Good. Amoy Now Republican.
Peking, Nov. 15.—Optimism was the prevailing note in government circles. This feeling was caused by the report that Prince Ching, acting premier, had received a telegram from General Li Yuan Heng, commander of the rebel forces, saying that he was prepared to treat for peace on certain terms, and by the statement that the army divisions, one to six inclusive, would agree to uphold the monarchical constitution and support Yuan Shi Kai, provided the rebel leader's terms agreed with those of the army.
The imperial government issued an edict commanding Yuan Shi Kai to accept the premiership for the country's welfare and ordering the viceroys and governors of all the provinces to select three or five representatives who shall come to Peking and consult regarding the state of affairs.
The edict also appoints delegates to visit the sixteen disturbed provinces and pacify the people and announce that the throne donates one tael to each and all of the soldiers and police of Peking; presumably in the hope of purchasing their loyalty.
The government expresses the opinion that the edict will go far toward restoring peace.
A dispatch from Shanghai says that thirteen vessels of the imperial fleet went over to the revolutionists. One of the largest cruisers steamed up the river past the settlement and dipped the white ensign in salute to the foreign warships, to which none of them responded.
A telegram from Mukden says that Liang Chi Chiao, pioneer in the constitutional movement in China, has arrived there and that delegates of the constitutional party are consulting under his presidency as to the best means of ending the revolution without further bloodshed and regarding measures necessary for the protection of the dynasty.
Liang Chi Chiao has been an exile in Japan since the palace revolution in 1898.

SUES BALDWIN'S FOR $750,000 FEE
Says He Found Purchaser For Locomotive Plant.
Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—Probably the largest commission suit ever recorded in this state, or even in the United States, is that which has been filed by George H. Robinson, of New York, against the Baldwin Locomotive works to recover compensation amounting to $750,000, which he says he is entitled to for securing a bonafide offer of $30,000,000 for the property and plant of the defendant company.
The bill of complaint, which was filed by George S. Graham and Joseph Gillilan, counsel for Robinson, represents that Alva B. Johnson, president, but then vice president of Baldwin's, agreed to pay Robinson a commission of $500,000 if he procured from a responsible person or persons an offer of $27,500,000 for the Baldwin property, and for every $500,000 above that offer he was to receive $50,000 for each addition of $500,000.
The plaintiff says that he interested Jacob H. Schiff, the New York millionaire, in the project on behalf of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of New York, and after several conferences between Mr. Johnson and Mr. Schiff, the latter on behalf of his company offered to purchase the Baldwin plant and property by paying $25,000,000 in cash and taking $5,000,000 in common stock of a new company, which was to be organized for the purpose of continuing the business of the locomotive company.
In whole, Mr. Robinson avers, the offer of Mr. Schiff was practically $30,000,000 in cash. The plaintiff alleges that Mr. Johnson, on behalf of the Baldwin Locomotive works, accepted the offer of the New York millionaire, and evidently to Mr. Robinson's mind the deal was consummated. Almost immediately after accepting the figures of Mr. Schiff for the Baldwin company, Robinson avers that Mr. Johnson, realizing that the plant would bring more than the amount submitted by Mr. Schiff, closed a deal for the sale of the company to persons unknown to the plaintiff.

Manila Troops Ready.
Washington, Nov. 15.—For the last fortnight, under orders from the general staff, General Bell, commanding the Philippine division, has had between 5000 and 6000 American soldiers gathered at Manila and nearby points ready for instant embarkation for duty in China as soon as word should come from the state department. Facilities are at hand for embarking 5000 men in twenty-four hours.

Rebels Get Amoy.
Amoy, Nov. 15.—The republican tri-color waves over the city. There is no disorder, the shops remain open and there is a general feeling of relief. Crowds began to assemble for a conference with the revolutionary leaders. The gunboat Quenka, flying the dragon flag, cast off her lines and steamed out of the harbor.
Then about 1000 revolutionists formed in line and marched to the walled city, where they raised the republican emblem over the taotai's palace. Simultaneously a few tri-colors were displayed in other quarters of the city. Many Japanese and white flags also appeared.
The arrival of the American cruiser Saratoga, the monitor Monterey and the gunboat Queros and the British torpedo boat destroyers Janus and Virago helped to restore the confidence of the people.

DYNAMITE KILLS THREE BOYS
Threw 450 Blasting Cartridges Into a Bonfire.
Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 15.—A boyish prank of throwing 450 nitroglycerin blasting cartridges into a bonfire they had built resulted in an explosion that instantly killed one boy and two companions died within four hours.
The dead are: John McGuire, aged fourteen; Archie Clark, thirteen years old, and William Perry, aged eight years.
The force of the explosion was so great that window glass was generally shattered within a radius of hundreds of feet.

CARDINALS-TU-EE SAIL
Archbishop Farley and Most Rev. Falconio Set Out For Rome.
New York, Nov. 15.—Archbishop John M. Farley, of New York, and Most Rev. Diomedeo Falconio, apostolic delegate to Washington, sailed for Rome and investiture there as cardinals.
A throng of many thousands shouted and chanted farewells and good wishes for a mile along their path to the river. Each cardinal designate bared his head throughout the demonstration and left behind his blessing.
"I have been for some time among the American people," said Archbishop Falconio, "and during this time I have learned to love them. I admire and love their intelligence, their warm hospitality and their loyalty. My heart goes out in thanks to them for this magnificent farewell; my blessing is upon them."
Archbishop Farley, just before stepping aboard the Kron Prinzessin Cecile, said:
"Please thank for me the American people for their many kindnesses. I leave my blessing with them."
The Kron Prinzessin Cecile was stormed by followers of the cardinals designate who flocked aboard, and it was several minutes after scheduled time for sailing when she made her way into the river.

MISSOURI OUSTS HARVESTER TRUST
Company Must Quit State or Remodel Its Business.
IS ALSO FINED $50,000
State Supreme Court Declares It an Illegal Combination in Violation of Sherman Anti-Trust Law.
Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 15.—The supreme court of Missouri in an opinion by Justice Graves sustained the decision of the special commissioner, Theodore Brace, in his finding for the ouster of the International Harvester Company of America.
The court not only ousted the company from its right to do business in Missouri, but imposed a fine of $50,000, conditioned that, if the company paid the fine, separated itself from the International Harvester Company of New Jersey, filed a statement of its business and showed to the court that it would obey the laws in the future, it would be permitted to continue to do business in the state. It has sixty days to comply with the order.
Judges Lamm, Brown, Ferris and Woodson concurred in the opinion. Chief Justice Valliant wrote an opinion which was concurred in by Judges Lamm, Brown and Ferris. It left the amount of the fine to be fixed by the court after the company made a showing that it would comply with the law. Judge Graves sustained the position of Special Commissioner Brace on every contention.
The opinion found that competition was lessened and that practically all of the harvester business was done by the respondent company in the state. It held that it was contrary to the laws of the state of Missouri for one company to conduct the business of another as in this case.
Judge Graves in his opinion says: "The respondent was a part and parcel of this gigantic and nefarious scheme. For some years it has been the mere sales agent of the International Harvester company, the New Jersey company. It was licensed in this state to sell its own goods, but it is now selling the goods of another."
It became known to the court that Wall street had been informed of the decision before the court had convened. Where this information came from the judges all professed not to know, but all were equally determined in announcing that the "leak" would become the subject for immediate and thorough investigation.
The judges were indignant to learn that so important a decision had been made public long before it was handed down and used possibly by powerful financial interests in New York and other markets to reap fortunes.
The International Harvester company in September, 1910, was found guilty of violating the Missouri anti-trust laws by a commissioner appointed by the state supreme court. The case was submitted to the supreme court for affirmation last April. The International Harvester company was organized in 1902. It absorbed successively the McCormick, Deering, Warder, Bushnell & Glessner, Plante, Milwaukee, Keystone, Minnie, Altman & Miller, Buckeye company and the D. M. Osborne company.
The International Harvester company, Commissioner Brace declared in his report, by reason of its enormous capital, $120,000,000, could not obtain a license in Missouri, so the International Harvester Company of America, a selling agent, was organized and obtained a license. This concern, Judge Brace said, was organized simply to evade the laws of Missouri.

MISSOURI OUSTS HARVESTER TRUST
Company Must Quit State or Remodel Its Business.
IS ALSO FINED $50,000

State Supreme Court Declares It an Illegal Combination in Violation of Sherman Anti-Trust Law.
Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 15.—The supreme court of Missouri in an opinion by Justice Graves sustained the decision of the special commissioner, Theodore Brace, in his finding for the ouster of the International Harvester Company of America.
The court not only ousted the company from its right to do business in Missouri, but imposed a fine of $50,000, conditioned that, if the company paid the fine, separated itself from the International Harvester Company of New Jersey, filed a statement of its business and showed to the court that it would obey the laws in the future, it would be permitted to continue to do business in the state. It has sixty days to comply with the order.
Judges Lamm, Brown, Ferris and Woodson concurred in the opinion. Chief Justice Valliant wrote an opinion which was concurred in by Judges Lamm, Brown and Ferris. It left the amount of the fine to be fixed by the court after the company made a showing that it would comply with the law. Judge Graves sustained the position of Special Commissioner Brace on every contention.
The opinion found that competition was lessened and that practically all of the harvester business was done by the respondent company in the state. It held that it was contrary to the laws of the state of Missouri for one company to conduct the business of another as in this case.
Judge Graves in his opinion says: "The respondent was a part and parcel of this gigantic and nefarious scheme. For some years it has been the mere sales agent of the International Harvester company, the New Jersey company. It was licensed in this state to sell its own goods, but it is now selling the goods of another."
It became known to the court that Wall street had been informed of the decision before the court had convened. Where this information came from the judges all professed not to know, but all were equally determined in announcing that the "leak" would become the subject for immediate and thorough investigation.
The judges were indignant to learn that so important a decision had been made public long before it was handed down and used possibly by powerful financial interests in New York and other markets to reap fortunes.
The International Harvester company in September, 1910, was found guilty of violating the Missouri anti-trust laws by a commissioner appointed by the state supreme court. The case was submitted to the supreme court for affirmation last April. The International Harvester company was organized in 1902. It absorbed successively the McCormick, Deering, Warder, Bushnell & Glessner, Plante, Milwaukee, Keystone, Minnie, Altman & Miller, Buckeye company and the D. M. Osborne company.
The International Harvester company, Commissioner Brace declared in his report, by reason of its enormous capital, $120,000,000, could not obtain a license in Missouri, so the International Harvester Company of America, a selling agent, was organized and obtained a license. This concern, Judge Brace said, was organized simply to evade the laws of Missouri.

"I have heard him express deep sympathy with Mrs. Russell Sage," he said, "and say he would never entail on Mrs. Carnegie a burden of wealth so crushing."

Harvard and Yale Ready For Annual Clash on the Gridiron

By TOMMY CLARK.
The eleven of Harvard and Yale are ready for their annual clash on the gridiron to be played in Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 25. This game will mark the close of the big eastern season. From present indications the game should be hard fought from start to finish.

A close analysis of the Harvard-Yale eleven shows that they are very evenly matched. Yale has a slight advantage in weight, and perhaps its line is a little speedier. But the Crimson back field eclipses the Blue in all departments.

Harvard has two fast ends in Smith and O'Brien. They outclass the Yale pair, Francis and Avery. Smith is one of the best end men playing the game
this season. He is a hard tackler,
a swift runner and a great handler
of the forward passes. Crimson supporters pin their faith in the ability of Smith and O'Brien to effectively prevent the speedy Captain Howe from making any of his long runs. Yale has also two good subs in Bomeiser and Sheldahl.

At the tackle positions it is a tossup.
The Yale pair, Paul and Scully, have a little more experience than Captain Fisher and Hitchcock, but the last two mentioned have the weight which may count for much in the coming battle.

Yale seems to have an edge in the matter of guards. Loree and McDavitt have played a consistently good defensive game all season. Leslie of Harvard has also played a good game, but McKays, who has succeeded Fisher, the latter going to tackle, has had
but little practical experience.

Ketcham is a heavier man at center
than Storer and in all around ability is superior to the Crimson middle man.

At quarterback Yale excels Harvard.
Captain Howe is one of the best ever turned out at Yale. He is a great field general and a splendid manipulator of the forward pass and a fast runner
with the ball and an accurate kicker.
He will be the man that Harvard will have to watch in the coming game.
Crimson has a good quarterback in Potter, but he does not class with Howe.

Harvard has the better back field
men. Campbell, Wendell and Huntington are equally proficient at either bring down. He, too, is a good kicker, and with the punting done by two men the Ellis will not find it necessary to plan to save the kicker in the big game with Harvard. One or both players will surely be used in some place in the back field.

Philbin is a good runner and not easy to stop, but it is hard to tell just when he will make a disastrous fumble.

If Harvard makes the same mistakes as she did in the recent battle with Princeton, Yale will win. In the game with the Tigers Harvard relied on Wendell to carry the ball most of the time, and all the Tiger men had to do was to play him. They watched Wendell like a hawk and generally smothered his rush before he got started. He did get through many times,
but did not make any great gains.

Harvard and Yale have met on the gridiron thirty times since 1876, in which time Harvard has won only four games, four have been tied, and Yale has won twenty-two. Up until 1908 Harvard had not defeated Yale since 1901, when Campbell's great eleven, considered by many critics as one of the best that ever handled a football, triumphed by a score of 20

to 0 over a Yale eleven that had beaten Princeton a week before. The list below shows the record of the Yale-
Harvard games since 1876:

1876-Yale, 1 goal; Harvard, 2 touchdowns. 1877-no game. 1878-Yale, 1 goal;
Harvard, 0. 1879-Yale, 2 safeties; Harvard, 4 safeties. 1880-Yale, 1 goal 1 touchdown; Harvard, 0. 1881-Yale, 0 safeties;
Harvard, 4 safeties. 1882-Yale, 1 goal 3

Yale, 4 goals; Harvard, 1 touchdown. 1
safety. 1884-Yale, 4 goals 4 touchdowns;

1908-Harvard, 4; Yale, 0. 1909-Yale, 8;
Harvard, 0. 1910-Yale, 0; Harvard, 0.

The probable lineups of the two eleven will be:

Yale—Left end, Francis or Bomeiser;
left tackle, Tomlinson or Bronson;
left guard, Loree; center, Ketcham;
right guard, McDavitt; right tackle,
Paul; right end, Avery; quarterback,
Howe; left halfback, Camp; right halfback, Philbin or Spalding; fullback, Anderson or Freeman.

Harvard—Left end, Smith; left tackle, Hitchcock; left guard, Leslie; center, Storer; right guard, McKays;
right tackle, Fisher; right end, O'Brien;
quarterback, Potter or Gardner; right

REMOVE THE MUMMIES.

Don't Leave Them on Peach Trees to Infect the Trees Next Year.

After all the fruit has ripened and gone and the leaves have fallen there will still remain on many of the peach trees the dried up remains of peaches. These dry, withered peaches are called mummies, probably because they are dead and yet seem to exist a long time without rotting. Mummied peaches will hang on the tree all fall and winter, and often till far into the following spring, when the new growing buds and shoots push them off.
To all appearances they are harmless.

But the mummy on the peach tree
is a source of great evil in the fruit orchard business. On its sunken hide it carries hundreds of thousands of spores of disease. Next year these spores, if allowed to remain in the orchard, will be carried by wind, rain and other agencies to other trees, to cause the growing and ripening crop
to rot.

Many years the peach trees blossom freely, abundance of fruit sets and grows to maturity, the peaches begin
to color and ripen, when all at once, within a few days' time, they all begin to rot. Almost before we know it all of the peaches on all the trees in the orchard have rotted. Where there was prospect for a large and valuable crop of perfect peaches now is only more than worthless rotten trash, and all has happened before we could help ourselves.

The remedy for disease in the orchard caused by spores is spraying and washing with bordeaux mixture. This mixture will kill and keep in check nearly all fungous diseases if the treatment is given in the right way
and at the right times.

Of course it is needless to make the applications after the disease or rot
has once got under way, any more than it is to give medicine to a sick animal when it is dying. The disease must be taken in time and the medicine given in the earlier stages if it is to do much good, and prevention is better than cure.

The peach mummies should be removed from the peach trees just as soon in the fall as the falling of the leaves will permit all of them to be immediately burned to get them out of the way and to kill the spores adhering to them to prevent them flying in the air of the orchard and causing the next season's crop of peaches to rot.

If this is promptly and carefully done every year—in your own orchard and in your neighbor's—there will be less rotten fruit.—Farm Progress.

THE SIZE THAT COUNTS.

It is not so much the size of the farm as the size of the farmer that counts. It is the man who studies to get the best results from the amount of land
he controls, the man who puts in his time in the best way, the man who thinks about his work,
who succeeds with the many or
the few acres that he farms.

SAVE YOUR FINGERS.

Device on Beet Cutter to Prevent Injury to Workmen.

While America leads the world in the matter of big crops, it is behind the countries of Europe in such things as getting the most out of its land without exhausting its fertility and in other important respects. Wheat lands in Europe have been cultivated for a thousand years without showing as

(From American Museum of Safety, New York.)

many signs of exhaustion as American lands placed under the plow less than 10 per cent of that time.

In another very important respect Europe is far ahead of the United States. That is in guarding against accidents to workers in field and factory.

A practicable European device for preventing injury to men engaged in cutting beets is shown in the picture.
To protect the workmen from touching the knife disk of the beet cutter
the disk is covered completely from the outside and, as far as possible, from the inside. The outer sheet metal safety lid furthermore prevents the cut beets from flying around so that they can be more easily guided into a receptacle placed underneath.

Farmer Sues an Aviator.
The first legal case of a farmer against a flying machine has been brought in England. An aeroplane came down in a field of barley and did considerable damage. The farmer has brought suit.

Some one has figured out that if every boy in the country would eat five apples a day for the next three months
it would require all the apples which have been produced in the country
this year and would insure a fair price to the growers. Another thing about this boy-apple combination is that it is just as good for the boy as it is for the apple market. Five apples a day will merely keep the average boy's digestive organs in good working order.

THE GRANGE

GRANGE SENATOR.

Obadiah Gardner of Maine Succeeds Mr. Frye.

He Was Master of the Maine State Grange Ten Consecutive Years and Will Be of Material Assistance to the Order and to Farmers Generally in the Senate—State Master Stetson's Opinion.

The appointment of Hon. Obadiah Gardner of Rockland, Me., to the United States senate by Governor Plafled
was a cause of universal congratula-tion among the farmers of the Pine Tree State. He succeeds the late Senator Frye as Maine's representative in the upper house. The Order of Patrons of Husbandry will have in Mr.
Gardner an able and aggressive leader
and an advocate of grange policies.

His Platform.

Relative to the important measures which will concern him as a member of the United States senate he said to a reporter:

"I have attended many sessions of the national grange, and I have no hesitancy in expressing my approval of all these matters save one." Then he handed the interviewer a report of the national grange proceedings wherein was this list, the proposal being to favor the enactment of the various ideas into laws:

Federal appropriation for highway
improvement.
Parcels post delivery.
Postal savings banks.
Direct election of United States senators.

Defeat of ship subsidy.
Retention of oleomargarine laws.
Appropriation for farm schools.
Opposing agreements to the detriment of farmers.

"The exception in the original list,
the item to which I am opposed, is the appointment of a permanent tariff commission. I believe it is in direct antagonism to the constitutional provision regarding the method of originating revenue measures. I do not expect to find the report of the present commission of much advantage in the effort to bring about tariff reduction on a just and satisfying basis."

Speaking of the appointment of Ob-adiah Gardner as United States senator,
State Master Stetson, who succeeded Senator Gardner as head of the Maine
state grange, said:

"The appointment of Mr. Gardner is very pleasing not only to myself, but to a large body of the Maine state grange. Last December a resolution was passed at the state convention at Augusta urging that the next senator from Maine be a granger, and in my journeys through Maine I was surprised to find with what unanimity
this opinion was held everywhere.
Maine has been signally honored by the appointment of Senator Gardner, for he is an able man who will be heard from in congress. He is very popular throughout the country as well as in Maine as a granger of the best type. He has for years advocated all the great reforms the grange stands for, and we will look to him to advance the cause of the parcels post, postal savings banks and national aid for roads, to all of which policies the grange is committed."

When it was suggested to State
Master Stetson that in the event of a Democratic president Senator Gardner would be a strong candidate for secretary of agriculture the possibility struck him as very logical, and he said: "That would be indeed the place where Senator Gardner would shine. He is first of all a farmer who knows the farm from a practical standpoint. He is a widely read man and a common sense man who would be broad enough as commissioner for the whole country, and I am sure that Senator Gardner's friends in the Maine
state grange would rejoice and so would the whole state of Maine to see a Maine man in charge of this important portfolio."

Many newly set family orchards that we know, like many boys and girls, need some attention just now if they are going to develop into anything symmetrical and valuable later on. As regards these young trees they should have their runny, sprawling tops cut back so as to give a sturdier and more shapely head or frame, while cross or ill shaped limbs should be taken out entirely. This work is done easily now, while the trees are in the formative stage, while the results secured
are in every way more satisfactory
than if the job is postponed.

The Northwestern Greening is a late
and none too prolific bearer, rots
quickly if bruised and has none too good a texture, but it has when full ripe a tang and spiciness that are surpassed by not more than two or three other varieties.

A fellow's real patriotism—interest in the welfare of his community and country—is not measured by his fine buildings, bustling cribs and mows
and sleek animals, but by the pains
he takes to inform himself of the important issues of his time and to cast
his vote on election day.

MOTHER WAS WISE

Built up Boy's Strength Instead of Giving Cough Syrup.

A lingering cough is a sure sign of weakness in a child, and the sensible thing is to build up the system. Then the cough will disappear.

But if the child has no appetite,
then it needs Vinol, which has not a particle of the nasty, greasy smell and taste that make children hate cod liver oil. Vinol is so pleasant they like to take it and it builds them up wonderfully.

Mrs. R. Inza of New York City
says, "My little boy had a very bad cough for two months. I did not like to give him cough syrups for many of them are not good for children. But I did give him your delicious cod liver and iron remedy Vinol and one bottle caused his cough to disappear entirely and restored him to health."

We guarantee that Vinol will build up and strengthen weak, pale children
and all rundown persons of every age.
